1995-96 Outlook

Maryland women's basketball is "On the Rise" in 1995-96. The Terps return eight letterwinners and two-thirds of their scoring and rebounding from last year's squad. With two freshmen joining the fold and a now-healthy Kelley Gibson returning, head coach Chris Weller begins her 21st year at Maryland with ever-increasing expectations.

BACKCOURT IS EXPERIENCED

The Terps' biggest strength lies in its wing players. Sophomores Stephanie Cross and Sonia Chase are versatile players who led Maryland in scoring and rebounding last winter. Cross was an ACC All-Rookie honoree after leading the Terps in scoring with 11.5 points per game. The Spencer, N.C. native led the team in blocks with 13 and was third in steals with 49. Chase competed on the gold medal team at the U.S. Olympic Festival in Colorado this summer and grabbed the third most steals by an ACC hoopster last season, averaging 2.4 per game. She also grabbed a team-best 6.7 boards per game.

Kelley Gibson returns to the squad after playing only three games before a knee injury ended her rookie season. She earned honorable mention All-American honors from Kodak and Street & Smith's in high school. Gibson is an explosive offensive threat for Maryland who will provide the strong three-point shooting threat missing from last year's team.

Lillian Purvis is one of only two juniors on the team, offering the Terps' most experience on the perimeter. An ACC All-Rookie team member two year ago, Purvis boasted an 82 percentage mark from the charity stripe. Jada Anderson adds depth in three-point shooting strength after seeing limited action over the past two years due to injuries.

Lillian Purvis

UNTESTED AT POINT

The point guard position is the most untested on this young squad. Freshman Kim Bretz is a heady player who could be a key to engineering Maryland's smart scoring maneuvers. Bretz also presents a new weapon for the Terps from three-point land. Sonia Chase will split her time between the perimeter and point positions, bringing a quick hand and solid playing experience.

POST SEARCHING FOR LEADERSHIP

Maryland's frontcourt will be searching for a leader. Nina Ohman, the Terrapins' other junior, filled the paint for much of the season last year. But sophomore Kalisa Davis, who struggled with injuries through much of 1994-95, will log minutes at both center and forward. In 15 games, Davis hit 47 percent from the field.

A much more confident sophomore Rachel Cimmier returns after building her basketball experience this summer on France's European Cup winning junior national team. Newcomer Marika Rasmussen is a Denmark native who averaged 22 points and 15 boards as an exchange student at Northern High School in Baltimore and will compete for frontcourt minutes.

SCHEDULE IS CHALLENGING

The Atlantic Coast Conference is as strong as ever. Four conference opponents made the 1995 NCAA tournament field with three making the "Sweet Sixteen," while Clemson traveled to the NIT.

Non-conference action is just as tough. Iowa, Cal-Santa Barbara and Stephen F. Austin will compete at the Hawkeye Classic, while Maryland welcomes Penn State (7th in the 1995 final AP poll), Bowling Green and Mount St. Mary's to the Dial Soap Classic. The schedule also includes a trip to Los Angeles for a PAC-10/ACC Challenge against Southern Cal and U.C.L.A.

Tradition of Excellence at Maryland

Maryland has recorded ten 20-win seasons under Weller and has had a long list of other achievements. At the top of the list are three Final Four appearances, 14 National Tournament appearances, eight ACC Championships and a three-week No. 1 ranking in 1992.

Head Coach Chris Weller has tallied a 401-184 record in her 20 years. As the head coach of the US Select Team in 1994, Weller took the team to a 3-1 tally. While she begins her 21st season at her alma mater – she is still molding the Maryland basketball team into a tradition that is hard to match.

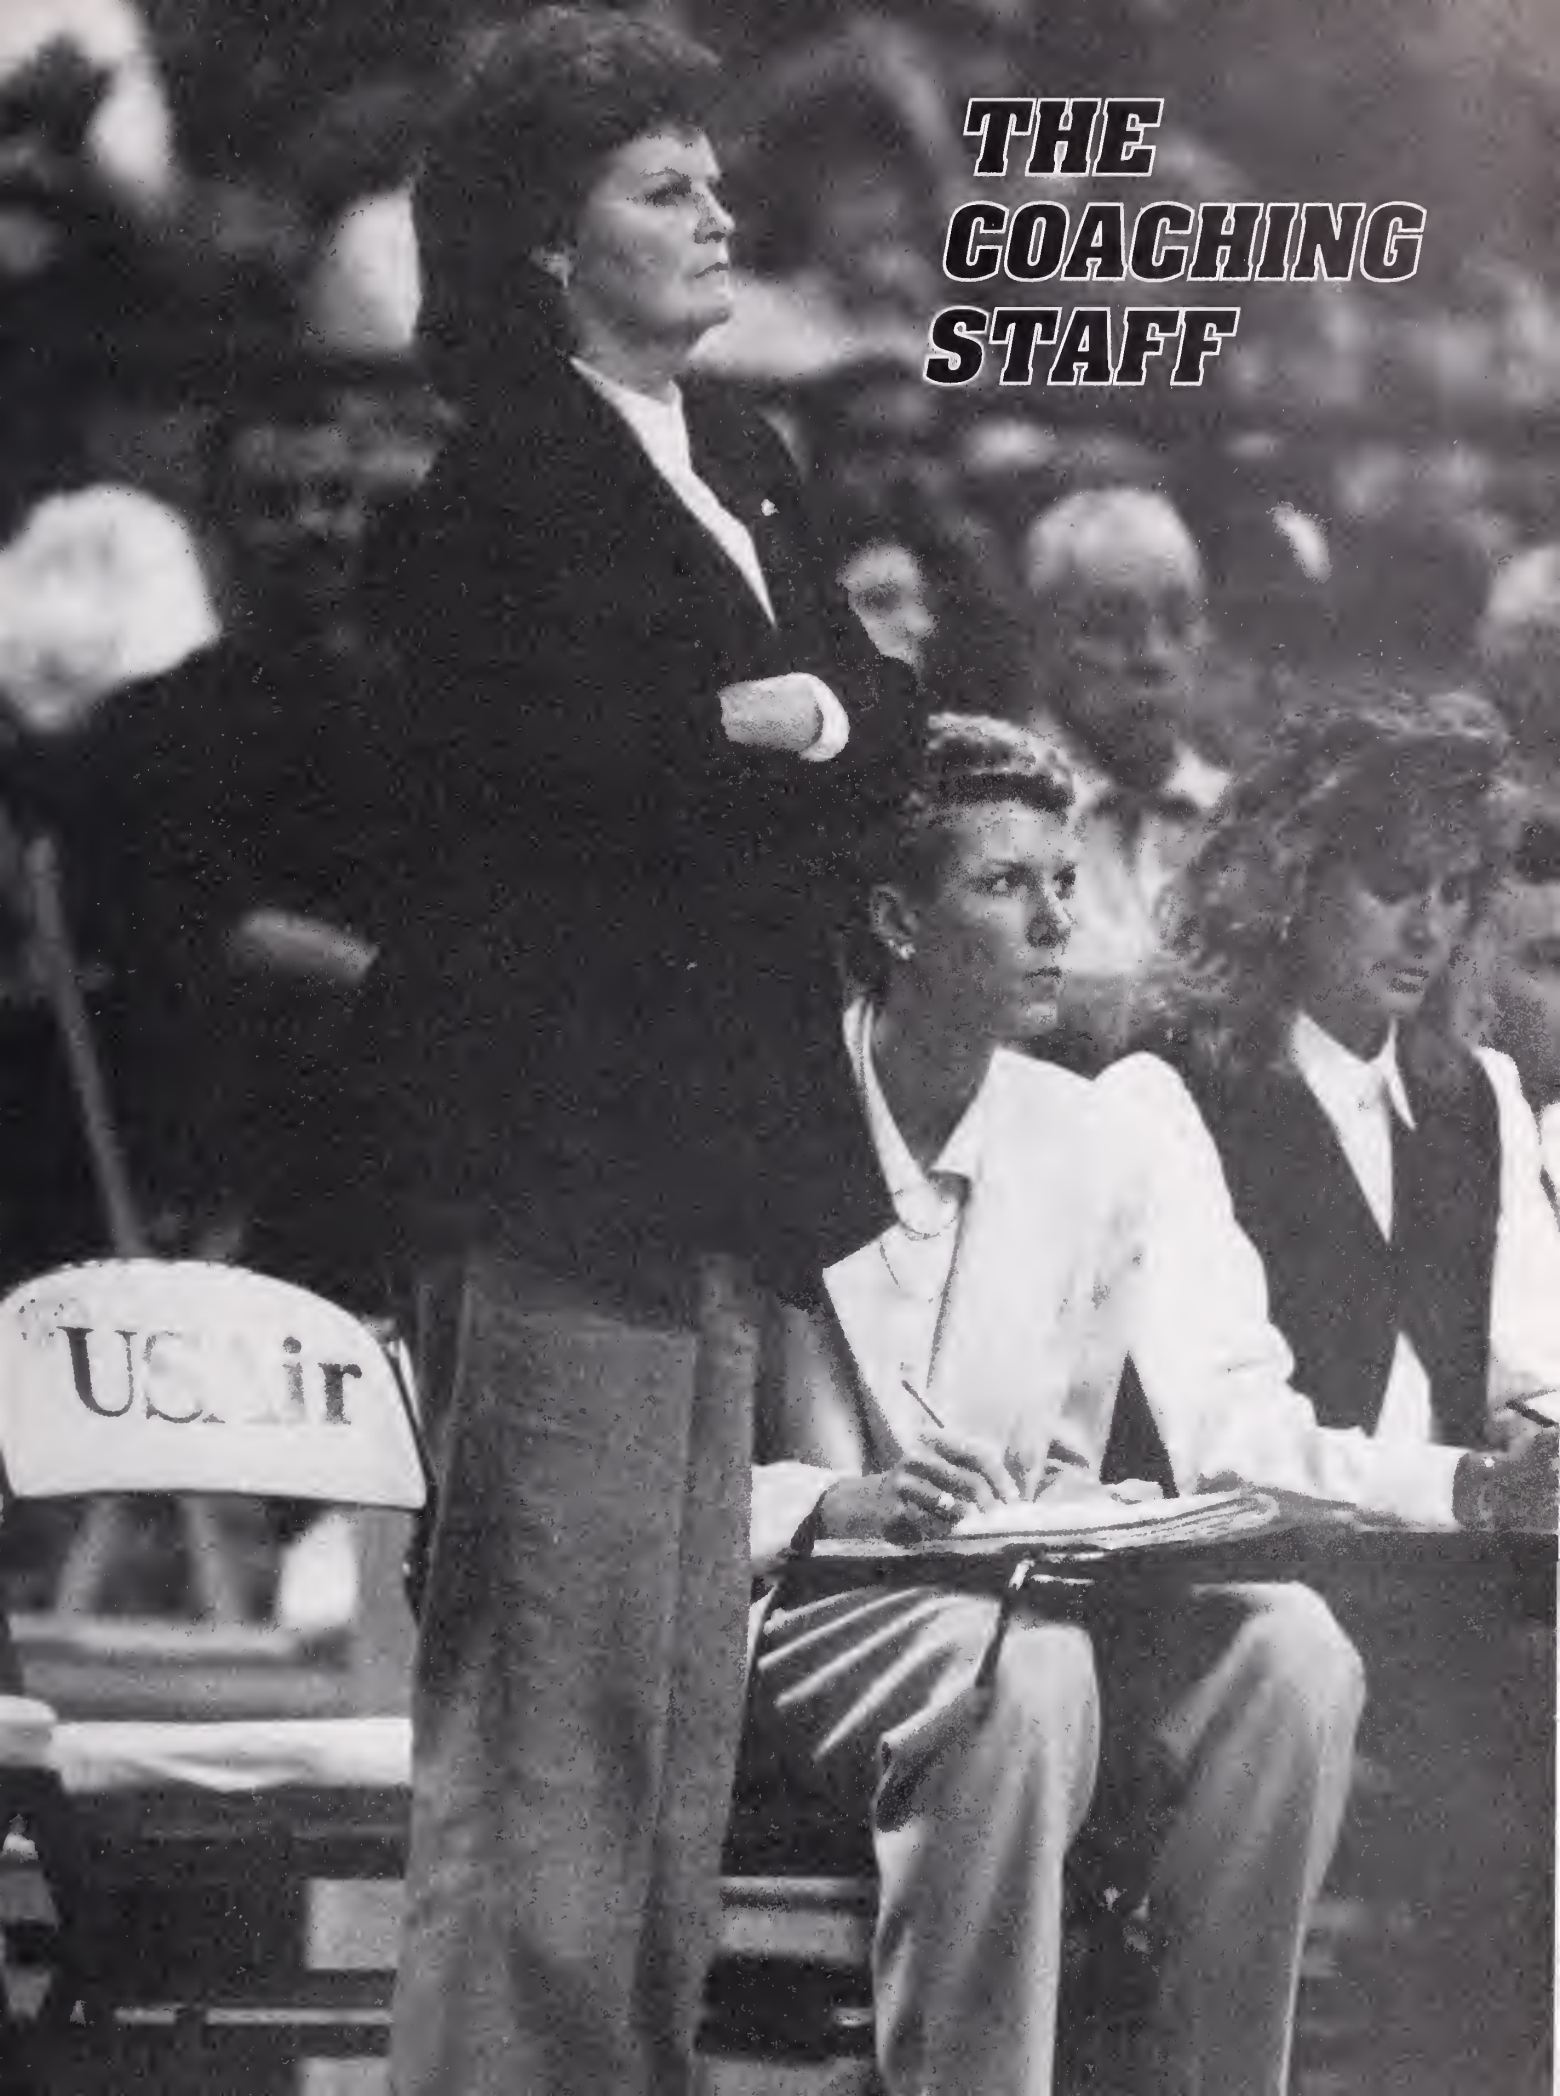
MIDNIGHT MADNESS AT COLE FIELD HOUSE

Each October, thousands of Maryland fans jam into Cole Field House to watch the Terps practice at midnight to officially open the season. With the lights off, the Terps are introduced amidst a laser show and fog lamps. The 1995 Midnight Madness was aired live on ESPN. What a way to tipoff the season!



THE COACHING STAFF

Head Coach Chris Weller

Chris Weller begins her 21st season at the helm of the Maryland basketball program. She has registered a 401-184 mark at her alma mater accomplishing a myriad of astounding goals. She became only the fifth coach to earn at least 400 victories at a single institution as the Terrapins defeated a tough N.C. State team 83-80 on January 28, 1995. The nationally-respected head coach has directed her squads to an unprecedented eight Atlantic Coast Conference Championships. Weller has led her teams to 14 NCAA Tournaments, advancing to 10 Sweet 16's, eight Final Eights, and three Final Fours.

Leading her team to its sixth NCAA Tournament appearances in the past seven year, Weller is among an elite list of active Division I coaches to earn 400 career wins. She ranks in the Top 20 in the NCAA by victories.

Under Weller, the Terrapins have been ranked in the Top 10 nationally nine times and the Top 25 on 14 occasions. In her 20 years, all but five classes have participated in a Final Four and every class has experienced at least one Sweet 16.

Individually, players have achieved personal recognition under Weller as well. Maryland has had five Olympians, three Kodak All-American's and 28 athletes have played on national teams. Along with these successes, Weller has seen all but one athlete since 1980 who finished her eligibility, earn a diploma. This is a tribute to her high expectations for her student-athletes both on and off the court.

Weller has been honored many times by the press and coaching fraternity including Naismith National Coach of the Year and Basketball Writer's Association of America Coach of the Year both in 1992. Along with being recognized as the American Sports Foundation's Coach of the Year in 1989, she has twice been selected ACC Coach-of-the-Year (1989, 1992) by her peers. Weller has been head coach of the U.S. Select Team in 1986, 1992 and 1994.

Weller's dynasty began her first year as head coach in 1975 as the Terps finished with a 20-4 record. The very next year, Weller guided her squad to a first ever national ranking of 13th. Her third year brought her first ACC Championship trophy to College Park, opening a cabinet for which many more awards and trophies would be stored. In that year, 1978, the Terps reached a No. 2 national ranking and were among the elite to reach the first Final Four in women's basketball. In 1982, Weller saw her team achieve a 25-7 record, a No. 3 ranking and another Final Four appearance. For the next two consecutive years, Maryland was in the Final 16 of the NCAA Tournament. In 1988, Weller took her squad to the Final 8 with a 26-6 record and in 1989, the squad was 29-3 recording the most wins in school history and advancing to the Final Four for the third time under Weller.

Many goals were accomplished for Weller in 1992. For the first time, her squad reached a No. 1 ranking in both the Associated Press and USA Today Polls from January 21 through February 11. Maryland's jump to the No. 1 spot from the No. 15 in the preseason was the second steepest climb in the history of the Associated Press Poll. On February 11, when No. 1 Maryland met No. 2 Virginia in Cole Field House, a sellout crowd of 14,500 broke the Atlantic Coast Conference record for attendance.

The 1993 squad finished 15-13 and fourth in the ACC regular season. Last season the team was 11-18 and 2-14 in the ACC after losing several key players early in the season due to injury.

A 1966 Maryland graduate, Weller was a four-year varsity letterwinner in basketball and also participated on the swimming and lacrosse squads. Following graduation, she taught and coached at John F. Kennedy High School in nearby Silver Spring, Md.

A popular speaker and teacher of the game, Weller returned for her Master's Degree in 1973 and became an assistant for two seasons under Dottie McKnight. In 1975, the Weller dynasty began, as she was elevated to head coach at her alma mater.

The 1996 Atlantic Coast Conference Tournament

After a 10-year stay in the Cumberland County Memorial Arena in Fayetteville, N.C., the ACC Tournament moved south in 1992 to Winthrop Coliseum. The Tournamnet in 1996 begins Thursday, February 29 and ends with the Finals on March 3. Located near the North Carolina/South Carolina state line, the Winthrop Colisum opened in 1982 as a multi-event facility suitable for concerts, basketball games, banquets, conventions, trade shows and sports camps. Its maximum seating capacity is 6,100.

The Tradition

Consistency. It's the mark of true excellence in any endeavor.

However, in today's world of intercollegiate athletics, competition has become so balanced and so competitive that it is virtually impossible to maintain a high level of consistency.

Yet the Atlantic Coast Conference has defied the odds. Now in its 43rd year of competition, the ACC has long enjoyed the reputation as one of the strongest and most competitive intercollegiate conferences in the nation. And that is not mere conjecture, the numbers support it.

Since the league's inception in 1953, Atlantic Coast Conference schools have captured 55 NCAA and AIAW championships, including 30 in men's sports and 25 in women's competition. In addition, 90 men and 22 women have earned the coveted title of NCAA champion.

If success is best measured in terms of wins and losses, then the ACC is unrivaled in NCAA Basketball Tournament history. The men's and women's programs have combined for 14 consecutive trips to the Final Four and 35 appearances overall.

The league's women's basketball program ranks among the best in the country in terms of overall NCAA Tournament record. With 66 wins in 55 appearances, the conference is listed second best in total wins and total appearances.

Over the years, ACC basketball teams have gained global recognition through their NCAA Tournament and National television exposure. More than 200 regular season games, plus all of the men's conference tournament and the semifinals and finals of the women's tournament will be televised. Conference teams will be seen on all three major networks, ESPN and the Prime Network.

ACC Basketball is more than numbers though. The faces behind the men's and women's programs account for 23 national player of the year awards and ten national coach of the year awards, including Dawn Staley's player recognition in 1991 and 1992 and Chris Weller's coach recognition in 1992. The ACC has produced 30 Olympians, including coaches and players. Maryland has several Olympians; Tara Heiss and Kris Kirchner in 1980 and Vicky Bullett in 1988 and 1992.

The ACC also stands at the forefront of intercollegiate athletics in terms of academic accomplishments of its student-athletes. That accomplishment is nowhere better reflected than in the CFA Academic Achievement Award which is awarded annually to a CFA member institution with the highest graduation rate among members of its football team. Nine times in its history the award has gone to an ACC school has.

Since 1983, 162 women's basketball players have received ACC Honor Roll recognition. The 1994-95 academic year included 28 selections. In addition, ACC basketball players have earned first-team Academic All-America honors four times.

The Championships

The conference currently conducts championships in 23 sports, including 12 for men and 11 for women.

The first ACC Championship was held in swimming on February 25, 1954, while the league's inaugural basketball tournament took place March 4-6, 1954, at North Carolina State drawing 36,000 fans over the three days. The conference did not conduct championships in cross country, wrestling or tennis during the first year.

The 12 sports for men include football, cross-country, soccer, basketball, swimming, indoor and outdoor track, wrestling, baseball, tennis, golf and lacrosse. Fencing, which was started in 1971, was discontinued in 1981.

Women's sports were initiated in 1977 with the first championship meet being held in tennis at Wake Forest, October 6-8. The first women's basketball tournament was held February 9-11, 1978 at the University of Virginia. Championships for women are currently conducted in cross-country, volleyball, field hockey, soccer, basketball, swimming, indoor and outdoor track, tennis, softball and golf.

The History

The Atlantic Coast Conference was founded May 8, 1953, at Sedgefield Inn near Greensboro, North Carolina. The conference's seven charter members from three states included Clemson University, Duke University, University of Maryland, University of North Carolina, North Carolina State University, University of South Carolina and Wake Forest University.

The withdrawal of the seven schools from the Southern Conference came early in the morning of May 8, 1953, during the annual spring meeting of the conference. On June 14, 1953, the seven members met in Raleigh, NC where a set of bylaws were adopted and the name Atlantic Coast Conference was officially recognized.

Dr. James T. Penney of the University of South Carolina was elected temporary chairman and became the ACC's first president when the school's met again on June 14, 1953. Professor F. W. Clonts of Wake Forest was named Vice President and Dr. Oliver Cornwell of North Carolina was elected secretary-treasurer.

On December 4, 1953, the Conference again met at Sedgefield Inn and officially admitted the University of Virginia to the league. Virginia began active championship participation with the 1953-54 basketball season.

The ACC set up office at the King Cotton Hotel in Greensboro, NC on July 1, 1954. The office was moved to 338 North Elm Street on July 1, 1966 and then to 2100-N West Cornwallis Drive in April of 1980. The conference moved to its current site at 6011 Landmark Center in April 1989.

The first and only withdrawal of a member from the ACC occurred on June 30, 1971 when the University of South Carolina tendered its resignation. The Conference continued with seven members until April 3, 1978, when Georgia Institute of Technology was admitted. The Atlanta, Ga, school became a playing member of the ACC on July 1, 1979, but did not become eligible for the football championship until the 1983 season. The Conference expanded to nine teams with the admittance of Florida State University on September 15, 1990. The Seminoles became a playing member of the ACC on July 1, 1991, but did not become eligible for the football championship until the 1992 season.

THE UNIVERSITY

Dr. William E. Kirwan
President
University of Maryland, College Park

After 25 years of service as a professor and administrator at the University of Maryland at College Park and following a national search, Dr. William English Kirwan was appointed president of the university on February 1, 1989. He served as acting president of the university from August 1, 1988, until the time of his appointment as president.

Dr. Kirwan joined the university in 1964 as an assistant professor of mathematics. He rose through the faculty ranks as associate professor (1968-1972), professor (1972-present), and chair of the Department of Mathematics (1977-81).

In 1981, he was appointed vice chancellor for academic affairs, College park's chief academic post. As vice chancellor, Dr. Kirwan raised admission standards, increased the number of merit scholarships and graduate fellowships, and established an academic planning process.

During his tenure as president of the university, Dr. Kirwan has played a pivotal role in all of the university's most significant initiatives, including: an increased emphasis on graduate education; selective enhancement of academic programs; recruitment and retention of distinguished faculty; achievement of diversity goals for underrepresented minorities, and a national capital campaign in excess of $200 million,

Dr. Kirwan is known for his ability to see beyond the institutions day-to-day problems, and for his talent as a consensus builder among the large and divers campus community. Under his leadership, the university undertook a major restructuring of its academic organization, going from a divisional system to a more traditional system of colleges and schools. Subsequently, when the state's economic decline forced a reduction of the university's budget, he oversaw a streamlining of the university's academic offerings through the elimination of a college, seven departments, and 32 degree programs.

Dr. Kirwan is a member of various honorary and professional societies, including Phi Beta Kappa, the American Mathematical Society, and the Mathematical Association of America. He is the co-editor of the book Advances is Complex Analysis, and the author of many published articles on mathematical research. He served as an editor of the Proceeding of the American Mathematical Society from 1977 to 1985. He chaired the Mathematical Sciences in the Year 2000 committee, a task force created by the National Research Council (NRC) to improve mathematics education in the nation's colleges and universities during the next decade, and he currently serves on the NRC's Committee on Undergraduate Science Education.

Dr. Kirwan is a member of numerous boards, including the Board of Directors of the American Association of Colleges and Universities, the Council for International Exchange of Scholars (the Fulbright Program), the World Trade Center Institute, the Baltimore Council of Foreign Affairs, and the Greater Washington Board of Trade. He was recently elected to the Board of Directors of the National Association of State and Land Grant Colleges (NASULGC) and to the Presidents Commission of the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA). He is also chair-elect of the NASULGC's Commission on Ocean and Atmosphere. In addition, Dr. Kirwan serves on the American Council on Education Commission on Women in Higher Education and chairs the Prince George's County Board of Education's Citizens Advisory Committee.

Because of his contributions to higher education, he was named Officer in the Order of Leopold II by the Belgium Government and elected to the University of Kentucky's Hall of Distinguished Alumni.

Noted for his enormous energy and long work days, Dr. Kirwan regularly finds time to teach an undergraduate class. Whenever possible, he schedules time to enjoy a classical music concert and tires to find an hour or two each week to escape to a convenient tennis court where he is known as a very competitive tennis player.

Dr. Kirwan is married to the Patricia Harper of Lexington, Kentucky. They have two children: a son, William E. Kirwan III, 30, a Washington architect who earned his baccalaureate and master's degrees from the university, and a daughter, Ann Elizabeth, 25, who also graduated from the university with a degree in journalism.

Deborah A. Yow
Athletics Director

Deborah A. Yow, whose tenure as Athletic Director at Saint Louis University was marked by extraordinary academic and competitive achievement, was named to direct the athletic program at the University of Maryland by President William E. Kirwan on August 15, 1994.

Yow's energetic presence at Maryland produced a dynamic first year. Her effective reorganization of the budget process allowed a departmental deficit to be slashed dramatically. For the first time in 11 years, the athletics department budget finished in the black. She also reorganized development and marketing departments, giving Maryland a financial outreach program with which to accomplish its goals. An accentuation of academics insures continued improvement in graduation rates and academics.

Yow oversees a massive refurbishing program of facilities. Byrd Stadium's current $20 million in construction and the refurbishment of the Cole Field House seating area are just two of many projects that are taking place, or which are planned, at Maryland.

Along with the administrative success have come competitive successes. The most fans in school history watched the men's basketball team again reach the Final 16 of the NCAA Tournament, men's soccer qualify for its first NCAA appearance in eight years and win its first tournament game in 25 years, and men's and women's lacrosse qualify for the NCAA finals, with the women winning the national championship.

Yow's experience allowed her to step-in at Maryland at the busiest time of the year—just when the 24-sport program and school year were getting underway. She knew about getting things done. At Saint Louis, she led the effort which enabled the university to achieve a 92 percent graduation rate for student athletes. She increased significantly the marketing, promotion and corporate sponsorship of Saint Louis's athletic program. In her last year, the Billikens ranked second only to national champion Arkansas among all NCAA schools in percentage increase of men's basketball attendance.

Prior to becoming an athletic director, the indomitable Yow had a highly successful career as basketball coach. She is the first coach in NCAA history to lead previously unranked teams at three different NCAA Division I schools to top 20 rankings. She coached at the University of Kentucky, Oral Roberts University, and the University of Florida.

Yow served as a member of the NCAA Council, the primary governance body for the NCAA, and the Division I Steering Committee. She also served as a member of the Executive Committee of the National Association of Collegiate Directors of Athletics (NACDA).

Currently, she serves on the boards of USA Basketball and the College Football Association.

Yow began her administrative career in 1985 when she moved from basketball coach to assistant director of the University of Florida Gator Boosters, Inc. From 1987 to 1990, she served as associate director of athletics at the University of North Carolina, Greensboro, before going to Saint Louis.

Her collegiate basketball career began at Elon College. She coached at Burlington and Eastern Guilford high schools in North Carolina before being appointed at Kentucky as head coach in 1976.

Yow, 45, is the first and only female athletic director in the Atlantic Coast Conference, and one of only 12 in the NCAA Division I category. She is married to Dr. William W. Bowden, III.

STUDENT SERVICES

Academic Support

Dr. Javaune Adams Gaston
Assistant AD for Student Services

There is an insistence in the Maryland basketball program that student-athletes get a degree in a career field that will enhance their life after College Park. The insistence is underlined by Coach Chris Weller and her staff, by the athletic administration, and by the Academic Support Unit of the Department of Athletics.

A successful student almost always equates to a successful athlete. The commitment to academic excellence requires discipline, dedication and motivation. These are the same characteristics needed for an athlete to excel on the court or field.

Toward the goal of a successful academic experience for each student-athlete, the athletic department created the Academic Support Unit. Each ASU staff member is responsible for working with specific sports, counseling each student-athlete individually.

The department operates an ever-expanding computer room and an extensive library of most of the books an athlete will need through her academic career.

ASU organizes over 100 tutors from all academic disciplines. Student-athletes can receive specialized one-on-one training in any class by a qualified tutor.

Dr. Javaune Adams-Gaston, educator and clinical psychologist, is the Assistant Athletic Director for Athletic Student Services. She oversees the student-athlete's educational and medical well-being by her management of the Academic Support Unit and the Athletic Medicine support staff.

Don Pearman, Assistant Director of Student Services for the Academic Support Unit, is in his fourth year at College Park, but his experience in the University System numbers six years. He formerly was program director of the Meyerhoff Scholarships at the University of Maryland at Baltimore County campus. A model program of minority recruitment in the fields of mathematics and science, the Meyerhoff program is widely emulated. In the ASU, Pearman is responsible for post-graduate scholarship endeavors and the unit's tutorial program. He handles advising for the women's basketball team.

In addition to individual academic counseling, each member of the ASU serves the department in other capacities. The staff operates a technological computer room, where student-athletes gain hands-on experience with computer software and hardware systems. The ASU runs a comprehensive bookroom in which student-athletes can find various text books they will utilize during their undergraduate years.

Over 100 tutors in the ASU assist student-athletes in all areas of study. Student-athletes receive one on one training in any class necessary.

The Academic Support Unit has a positive effect on the athletes and plays an important role in University of Maryland athletics.

ASU offers a variety of programs which include:

* Personal academic assessment.
* Academic advising and counseling.
* Supervised study.
* Learning and study skill programs.
* Group and individual tutoring.
* Computer training and usage.
* Career mentor.
* Summer internships.

The Academic Support Unit

College Park Academic Support

Towards a good start

teaches an orientation course for freshman student-athletes (Education 108, Orientation to the University) to start the fall semester. The program is taught by the Academic Support staff and concentrates on skills and development issues. The course is intended to make the transition to college life easier.

The program allows the newcomers to balance their dual roles of academics and athletics in an unfamiliar environment. Student-athletes are taught organizational skills, note-taking, time management, pro-active planning, learning strategies, test-taking and writing skills.

The University's First Year Focus program is designed to see that the new student gets off to a good start at College Park. It has three parts.

First Year Focus provides the student with the opportunity to study with a member of the faculty in a small class, appropriate for first year students, devoted to that faculty member's scholarly interests.

Connections: Course Clusters is a program that enables new students to enroll in a variety of thematically related courses, supplemented by a one-credit linking seminar. This allows students the opportunity to examine a given subject from a variety of perspectives while developing a network of friends who share intellectual interests.

First Year Books is an activity sponsored by the Student Government Association. SGA selects a noteworthy book as an intellectual starting point for the incoming class of students that it provides at orientation. Many courses adopt it into their curricula, making the book the subject of campus-wide debate in seminars, lectures, and even performances.

First Year Focus is designed to make the big university small, to allow the vast resources of a research university with some of the intimacy of a small college. The College Park Scholars Program and the University Honors Program also serve the same end.

College Park Scholars is a new program designed to acquaint entering first-year students with the rich texture of academic life at the university. The program encourages students who share common intellectual interests to study together in courses organized around common themes and to live together in a selected residence hall. The Scholars program provides a focus for study, advising and a variety of educational and social activities.

The University Honors Program provides the university's most academically talented students a challenging and exciting range of seminar-style classes, a close-knit community, and contact with outstanding faculty. Typically, freshmen and sophomores broaden their intellectual horizons in a wide variety of specially designed Honors seminars and Honors versions of regular courses, most of which fulfill general education requirements. An Honors lecture series, a literary magazine as well as a vibrant social and cultural life complement the academic offerings. Many of these activities take place in Anne Arundel Hall, the Honors Living Learning Center, which is the center of the Honors Program.

Strength Training & Conditioning

The physical preparation of a student-athlete to compete in women's basketball has developed into a critical component of the overall program. Emphasis is put on physical conditioning not only to enhance performance, but also prevent injury.

Strength coach Dwight Galt employs a program that is geared towards maximizing athletic development. His staff makes every attempt to accommodate the different training needs of each athlete. Lea Hankey joined the staff this summer and assists with the women's basketball program.

University of Maryland student-athletes are fortunate to train in one of the premier weight training facilities in the country. The Maryland Weight Room Complex features 7,200 square feet of space that holds training equipment to meet the needs of the athletes. The facility includes an 11-ton free weight system with Olympic platform, as well as state-of-the-art electrolyzed and plate-loaded equipment.

COLE FIELD HOUSE

When college basketball was achieving its most explosive growth - from the late 1950's to the late 1970's - there was one college gymnasium on the East Coast that sat as many as 12,000 fans. Cole Field House epitomized the new big time, main event status of college hoops, the sport of network TV and emerging legends. It stands today as a building that faces cosmetic renewal over the next several years, but Cole's charisma will not be tampered with. There was not a bad seat on December 2, 1955, when it was dedicated in a men's game against Virginia, and there is not a better place to watch a game today. Only in a building like Cole, where history has been routinely made, can the fan feel the echo of tradition, and experience, even in the empty Cole, the electricity generated by buzzer beaters and a thousand slam dunks.

Cole was dedicated as the Student Activities Center, a $3.3 million project that was erected under the tutelage of Board of Regents Chair, Judge William P. Cole, Jr, and President Wilson Elkins. A year after the dedication, the building was named in honor of Cole, who served the Board of Regents for 25 years.

Although Cole has remained the same basketball hall it was built to be, there have been refinements. Scoreboards were installed recently that will not only tell the fan what the score is, but also how loud they are cheering. A new floor design reflects a modern era of basketball. Cole's seating also grew from its original base, and now 14,5000 fans can root for the Red and White at any game.

As championships were awarded over the years, Cole got some of the very best. The 1966 and 1970 Men's Basketball Final Fours were held her. In 1990, the first and second rounds of the Eastern Regionals were held in Cole Field House. The NCAA Wrestling Championship was held here in 1960, 1972, 1978, 1987, and 1990, and the NCAA Women's Volleyball Championship took place here in 1990.

Cole Field House is home to most of the athletic department offices, and yearly hosts thousands who visit just to see where so much hoop history has been made.

THE SPIRIT

THE TRADITION

Testudo is a Diamondback turtle. Like some other famous personages born into the Depression of the 1930s, the derivation of his name is cloudy. But it is likely that his moniker is derived from the scientific classification for turtle (testudines). Or the top turtle could be named after testudo gigantia, a species native to the African nation of Seychelles and one of its remote islands, Aldabra. Or the name could have come from a dictionary definition that says the word, testudo, was derived from the Latin and meant a shelter held over the head of Roman soldiers -like a tortoise shell. These explanations are a long way from the Chesapeake Bay where the Diamondback lives.

When Testudo had his coming out on May 23, 1933, he was thrown into a world filled with intimidating mascots — Wildcats, Tigers, Devils, Wolves, Bears — thought up over a half-century of intercollegiate competition. Maryland College Park was consolidated from different state schools in 1920 to form the base of today's wide-ranging state system, and the remodeled Maryland needed a flag carrier to do battle with Wahoos, Lions and Generals.

Dr. H.C. Byrd, a football coach who later became University President, recommended the Diamondback as mascot in 1932 in response to the student newspaper's search for an "official" leader. Byrd's childhood in Crisfield, Md., apparently included skirmishes with this brand of snapping turtle, indigenous to the Bay. The school paper was in fact already called The Diamondback, and when the Class of 1933 stepped forward with the idea of giving the University a permanent bronzed version as its graduation gift, Testudo's family was in to stay.

Maryland had been referring to itself as Old Liners, yet another name whose derivation no one seems sure of. Historians are in a scrimmage over whether the nickname is a reference to a Revolutionary War Troop of Maryland soldiers who distinguished themselves on the field of battle, or they feel it could refer to a squabble with Pennsylvanians over just where the border between the two states should be.

The Class of '33 raised money for casting a Diamondback by holding its Senior Prom on campus to save money on expenses. And the yearbook and Student Government Association chipped-in. Edwin C. Mayo, Class of '04 and a former quarterback, donated at cost the 300 pound bronzed beauty as President of Gorham Manufacturing in Providence, RI. Robert J. Hill cast the inspired sculpture accomplished by company artist Aristide Cianfrani. Further turtleization came when the student yearbook, The Reveille, became The Terrapin in 1935. Newspapers, even then exploring every angle, shortened Terrapin to Terp for headline writing ease when it wasn't trying to cram Old Liner into a single column head. The name was in place; now came the stuff of legend.

The Stuff of Legend

The nicely thought out plans that made Testudo an instant hit did have a flaw. Putting Mr. T in front of the campus gym, Ritchie Coliseum, exposed Testudo to every road agent wearing enemy colors. Ritchie was right on U.S. Route 1, then the principal North-South highway along the Eastern Seaboard. When a less dignified opponent needed something extra against the turtle and his troops, they practiced emotional blackmail, and kidnapped him.

That was not the worst of it. They painted his golden skin enemy colors, and defaced his pedestal which was only to have the block M on it. Instead, opponents painted illegitimate JH's or GW's or V's or NC's on his nest. A riot took place when Johns Hopkins students kidnapped the handsome reptile in 1947; 200 police were called to the Baltimore campus to control the justified anger of College Park students. Two years later, the nifty shelled crusader was found on the lawn of a Virginia (The University) fraternity house, whose occupants smugly called President Byrd with the message to get Testudo off their lawn. Of course Byrd obliged, and soon after Testudo was hidden in the campus carpentry shop where he was less inspirational, but a whole lot safer.

The second stadium bearing Byrd's name was built in 1950, and in 1951 Testudo, sans coats of rivals' paint, took his perch in front of the Byrd Stadium football team house. He had beaten back all who would wrong him, and to make sure he would not travel again, he was fed 700 pounds of cement and had his body attached to a new pedestal by long steel rods.

With his permanent nesting came success for Maryland. Acting as guardian to waves of Terp competitors, the national football championship came, as did several ACC titles in the 1950s. His popularity among the students might have been the undoing of success, however. When McKeldin Library was constructed in the middle of campus, the student body demanded Testudo's full-time presence in the center of day-to-day activities. Testudo had gone far beyond being just a symbol for athletics. He was a campus symbol. Students carefully carried him up the hill to the main College Green and the library, and he was bolted to a new bed of stone in the early 1960s.

Coincidence or not, football did have a downturn in the 1960s with Testudo absent. In the 1970s, when a costumed Testudo started to roam the sideline, success was returning. The furry Testudo reigned over unrivaled ACC football prowess, and sent Terps out to the four corners of the football world for bowls and intersectional clashes.

In 1992, a bronze twin to Testudo was created and installed just outside the new Football Complex locker room door. As the football team takes the field the team congregates around the bronze Terrapin, and then all touch his nose for good luck.

Joel Meisner Co. of Farmingdale, N.Y., created the twin. Two men spent two days in June of 1992 pouring a rubberized material over Testudo as it sat in front of McKeldin Library, followed by a wax mold on top. After a day to let the molds set, the wax was broken and easily removed. The rubber mold, which actually recreated Testudo, was painstakingly peeled away from the bronze and taken back to Meisner's factory where the twin was created using the Lost Wax method.

While Testudo was being recreated in front of McKeldin, the research library was undergoing extensive refurbishment. As part of the new interior and exterior McKeldin received, the beast guarding its front doors, the original Testudo, was given a new pedestal and his bronze coat was cleaned. The Class of '33, which created Testudo in the first place, used its 60th reunion to dedicate the rejuvenated campus symbol.

Fifty-nine years ago, the Diamondback Turtle Gorham used as a model for the shelled wonder had a ribbon attached to it at the dedication. The ribbon was tied to the canvas covering the statue. The Diamondback moved forward, and revealed the splendor of his larger, bronzed brother. But no one rushed the smaller Diamondback in his duties. All in attendance were true believers who knew what many unfaithful have discovered about Terrapins. They bite.

THE UNIVERSITY AT COLLEGE PARK

These are great days at the University of Maryland at College Park. The university, through an act of the state legislature, has been designated officially as the state's flagship campus with a mandate to become one of the nation's leading public universities. The effect of that mandate is for individuals from all corners of the university to aspire toward excellence, to think great thoughts and to become immersed in an educational enterprise of the highest caliber. There is an unmistakable momentum for change and a sense of heightened expectation at College Park — Maryland is choosing quality.

The faculty have enthusiastically endorsed a new general education program that began in the fall of 1990. It is a blueprint for comprehensive changes in the undergraduate experience at Maryland. The campus is reducing its undergraduate enrollment, improving the ratio between faculty and students, raising admissions standards, revamping the University Honors Program, strengthening the advising system, supporting expanded undergraduate research, and encouraging innovations in teaching.

A new language house has opened where student residents have direct satellite access to foreign language television broadcasts from the USSR, Latin America, Italy and Japan, and where, in a total immersion setting, they have pledged to speak their chosen language at all times. A new honors house, a stimulating living-and-learning center for undergraduates taking part in the University Honors Program, opened in 1992. An international house, a living-learning environment that will meet the growing needs of the diverse international population on campus, opened in 1992, also.

Our location adds to the excitement on campus, too. Few regions in the nation have the intellectual, cultural and physical resources to compare with those in the Baltimore-Washington, D.C. corridor. College Park's location astride that corridor means that Maryland undergraduates may tap these resources to their fullest — through internships, research projects, cooperative work-study and other programs offering hands-on experience.

We invite you to take a closer look at the University of Maryland, its extensive academic programs, faculty, research facilities, student activities and support services and the resources and opportunities it offers. See for yourself the number of different ways in which Maryland is choosing quality. There has never been a better time to choose Maryland.

History

Just after the American Revolution, the state of Maryland established its first two colleges at Chestertown and Annapolis. By the 1850s, at least thirty little colleges had sprung up over the state, many with state support, but many of them disappearing within a few years. Then, in 1859 a different kind of institution appeared at College Park—the Maryland Agricultural College, the third such college in the world, created mainly for farmers' sons. The college was established by Charles Benedict Calvert, a wealthy planter from nearby Riversdale—now Riverdale—and later a congressman. Calvert built a handsome Gothic dormitory—classroom structure located in a grove of trees near the present Morrill Hall, and he divided the land down to the Baltimore-Washington Turnpike into small plots where each of the 50-or-so students experimented with a different agricultural crop. After the Civil War the institution became a land-grant college, with small appropriations from Washington. The little college began to grow about 1900 when agricultural experiments began to bring prosperity to Maryland, and when the college expanded its offerings into engineering, business and the liberal arts. In 1912 the old Gothic building burned, and the state provided modern structures. Women were admitted to the campus, and graduate work began. In 1920 the college combined with the long-established professional schools of Baltimore and changed its name to the University of Maryland. Growth accelerated after 1935 when the politically astute football coach, H.C. 'Curley' Byrd became president,, added scores of new programs, and won national football championships. In the 1950s and 1960s, President Wilson H. Elkins maintained the rapid growth, and College Park became one of the largest campuses in the nation. President Elkins, a Rhodes Scholar, transformed the institution's public image from that of a party school to one of academic integrity. In the 1970s and 1980s, the university's graduate and research programs flourished. In 1988, the General Assembly of Maryland combined six state colleges with the five campuses of the University of Maryland, and specifically charged College Park with the role of leadership. The University of Maryland at College Park recognizes its special responsibility as the flagship and the largest of the eleven institutions within the statewide university system to lead the University of Maryland's quest for excellence. To this end, College Park offers broad coverage in the traditional arts and sciences as well as in a wide range of professional and pre-professional programs. The institution is organized into fourteen colleges and schools encompassing over 100 departments and campus-wide programs of study. A growing number of these departments and programs rank among the best in the nation. Today the University of Maryland at College Park stands, by any measure, as one of the leading institutions of higher education in the world.

Locale

The state of Maryland is unrivalled in its scenic beauty, its rich heritage, and its wealth of educational, recreational, and cultural opportunities. From the mountain passes of Garrett County in the west, to the sand dunes of Assateague Island on the Eastern Shore, and the cosmopolitan excitement of Baltimore and Washington, DC, there is an unparalleled variety of experiences and resources available to students at the university.

Nine miles from the nation's capital, the University of Maryland at College Park is within easy reach of the country's best research facilities. The Library of Congress, the National Archives (whose new facility is being constructed adjacent to the campus), the Smithsonian Institution and the National Libraries of Agriculture and Medicine are among the many unique resources in the area.

In addition to traditional scholarly resources, the campus is surrounded by the dynamic cultural opportunities that only a major metropolitan area can provide. The Kennedy Center alone houses the National Symphony Orchestra, five performance stages, an opera company, and the American Film Institute.

In Baltimore, one of the great ports of the world, a recent and remarkable renaissance has added the glistening touch of office towers and hotels to the quaint shops and ethnic restaurants of its many colorful neighborhoods. Harborplace and the National Aquarium anchor the Inner Harbor, which has become a cultural magnet for thousands of tourists each year.

The Chesapeake Bay accounts for nearly 20 percent of Maryland's acreage, and is a focal point for the serious study of estuarine ecology as well as a recreational treasure. It is the source of Maryland's famed crabs and other seafood specialties, and a refuge for many species of water fowl.

Not far from any point in the state is evidence of the burgeoning development which has made Maryland a model for economic growth and fiscal health. High tech, engineering, and service industries thrive in proximity to the campus, offering a wide spectrum of opportunities for work-study or internships for students and career choices for graduates.

The University of Maryland at College Park, as the flagship campus of the state higher education system, is a vital part of Maryland's current prosperity and its vision for the future. For students here, the state offers a bounteous extension to the campus's own wealth of opportunity.
